

Kitchen confidence

The kitchen is often the room in the house that cries loudest for renovation, but thoughts of change are often thrown in the 'too hard' basket. That's because a successful kitchen design requires technical nous, design savvy and a significant budget.

And the team at Creative Kitchens in East Tamaki says confidence is another vital ingredient required to move a new kitchen forward. Visit the company's showroom in East Tamaki and you'll discover three very diverse kitchens on display – from the bright blue, ultra-modern model finished in two-pot lacquer with a gloss-metallic finish through to more classic and contemporary

The team at Creative Kitchens Limited realises that while a new kitchen is an exciting event, it's a significant investment too. There's no other room in the house where such clever design is imperative.

Director Mark Morrow says that careful planning and thorough attention to detail are vital.

"We work closely with clients to design and manufacture their dream kitchen. We visit them at home to work out specific needs, but can work off plans as well.

"Our CAD system offers 3D images of the design prior to manufacture, providing opportunities for refinement before committing to the final layout."

Commitment to design excellence is further demonstrated by the company's purchase of CNC technology – or computer-nested CAD – which only 10 other companies in New Zealand have.

"This allows us to be one step ahead," says Mark. "All designs on the CAD are transferred to CNC, which means cabinetry is then cut exactly to the drawings, creating greater accuracy and time-saving benefits."

Creative Kitchens Limited offers a full colour consultation as part of its service as well as taking into account rooms adjoining the kitchen to ensure the spaces work well together.

There's also a wide range of exclusive laminate and natural products for cabinetry and bench tops on display in the showroom. Clients receive a comprehensive 10-year-warranty on all workmanship, plus a lifetime guarantee on quality hinges and hardware selected by Creative Kitchens Limited for its designs.

"While most of our clients are families, we also work with construction companies on projects such as apartments, retirement villages, motels and hotels. Give us a call and we'll give you the confidence to create a fantastic kitchen."
